

Lunar (Chinese) New Year

Learn about Lunar New Year (Chinese New Year) through books, videos, articles, art and more.

Visit Lunar (Chinese) New Year Around the World

London

San Francisco

Kobe, Japan

Chinese New Year Resources & Activities
By Julie Yeros

Chinese New Year, also known as Spring Festival, is a traditional and important holiday celebrated in communities around the globe. People travel long distances to reunite with family and participate in traditions that occur before, during, and after the New Year.

Our Latest Posts

- Idioms for English Language Learners
- Story of the Mongolian Tent House
- Celebrating Diversity in KidLit: Multicultural Children's Book Day
- Multicultural Versions of The Twelve Days of Christmas
- 7 Unique Cultures We Could Learn From

Author, Grace Lin teaches us how to draw a Chinese dragon

Chinese New Year

Chinese New Year is the festival that marks the beginning of a new calendar year in China. It is also called the Spring Festival because it marks the beginning of spring. During the holiday, family members gather together to share a big meal and give gifts. Each Chinese year has an assigned animal with certain characteristics. The year of your birth is supposed to mean you have these personality traits.

Fortune Tales | The Story of Lunar New Year

Draw to celebrate Chinese New Year

New Year's Parade

At Chinese New Year, people take to the streets in celebratory parades. People wear big, brightly-colored costumes in the shape of lions or dragons and perform dances. Lights are an important part of the festival. People light paper or silk lanterns.

3 LUNAR NEW YEAR CRAFTS brought to you by QuiverVision.com